Here are some websites related to 'driving' issues that you might want to visit:

<http://www.aota.org/olderdriver>- this the AOTA homepage for driving and has useful information (and links) for professionals and the general public

<http://aded.net/i4a/pages/index.cfm?pageid=1> - this is the Association for Driving Rehab Specialists. They provide certification testing, etc.

<http://adaptivemobility.com>- this is a company in FL which provides classroom instruction over a wide range of subjects for driving rehab specialist training

<http://www.nhtsa.dot.gov/people/injury/olddrive/OlderDriversBook/pages/Contents.html> - this is the Physician's Guide to Assessing and Counseling Older Drivers including senior driving issues, and testing.

<http://www.stisimdrive.com/> - this is our 'sister' company in the manufacture of the driving systems. On the homepage under Library, click on Videos to see short 'clips' of sample driving scenarios. (Without special high-speed graphic card in your computer, the scenes might 'cog' a bit as they run.)

<http://www.nia.nih.gov/NewsAndEvents/PressReleases/PR20020729Questions.htm> - this page is from the National Institute on Aging, and highlights issues for senior drivers.

<http://www.aota.org/olderdriver/docs/gdpractices.pdf> - Driver Evaluation & Retraining Programs – A Report of Good Practices, 2004. On this page, click on GOOD PRACTICES REPORT
